

SUMMER INTENSIVE INTERMEDIATES

Cranbury Studio • June 22 - July 31, 2009

29 N. Main Street, Cranbury, NJ 08512

Summer Intensive Intermediates offers an exciting summer program for young dancers, modeled on our internationally acclaimed Summer Intensive, of which it is an extension. Summer Intensive Intermediates offers the same careful, personal training for which ARB's Princeton Ballet School is famous, presented by some of the same teachers as those who teach the Intensive.

These years, ages 11 to 14, are key ones in the training of a young dancer. The opportunity to study more intensively, and to experience a wider variety of dance styles, can make a huge difference in a young dancer's progress. Just as in our Summer Intensive, we offer classes in variations, stretch and strength, choreography, jazz, and modern dance. These topics follow a strong morning of two ballet classes.

The program is for dancers at a high intermediate level. Many of these dancers have recently begun their pointe work. Others are getting ready for this major moment in a dancer's life. We spend time within the week working on basic pointe exercises and pointe readiness work. For the young men involved, we offer a Young Men's Class.

Students may choose from two to six weeks of training. Each week will build on and refer to the others. Serious young dance students will want to take four to six weeks of the program. Each week builds on and refers to the others. But please note that one can take the program in two week increments, if necessary. Each week has a different theme, with a classical ballet being studied. Admission is on a first-come, first served basis and enrollment is limited.

"My daughter just completed the workshop. Your faculty...were the utmost professional and caring group of instructors. Besides improving her strength, endurance and technique, they provided an atmosphere that allowed her to build self-esteem and to develop confidence in her ability in dance.

Thank you for the wonderful summer experience!"

FACULTY:

PEGGY PETTEWAY MAHONEY (ballet) was born in Orlando, Florida. She began her training at the School of Performing Arts and continued through the apprentice program of Southern Ballet Theatre under the direction of Barbara Riggins. She is a magna cum laude graduate of Florida State University. Ms. Petteway has danced with Bay Ballet Theatre, Southern Ballet Theatre, North Carolina Dance Theatre, Chautauqua Dance Company, and Pennsylvania Ballet. She has been dancing leading roles with American Repertory Ballet since she joined the company ten years ago. In 2001, Ms. Petteway married fellow ARB dancer Sean Patrick Mahoney. This is Ms. Petteway's ninth season teaching at ARB's Princeton Ballet School.

KATIE SCIBIENSKI (ballet) began her dance training at ARB's Princeton Ballet School with Cheryl Whitney, Carol Bellis, and Sally Edwards. After her family moved to Michigan, she continued her training at The Flint School of Performing Arts, and later studied at the Kirov Academy of Ballet in Washington, D.C. She graduated cum laude from Butler University, with a BA in dance pedagogy. Ms. Scibienski danced with Portland Ballet Company, in Portland, Maine. Since moving to New York in 2006, Ms. Scibienski has been teaching for ARB's Princeton Ballet School, and performing in New York with the STEPS Repertory Ensemble and Contemporary Ballet Theatre. She started teaching for the Cranbury program in summer of 2007.
