CLASSES OFFERED IN PRINCETON & CRANBURY STUDIOS

ABOUT THE SCHOOL

Princeton Ballet School aims to provide the atmosphere and training that will nurture both the potential artist and the dance student who studies only for the inherent rewards — self-discipline, physical fitness and a greater appreciation of movement and music.

In contrast to ballet schools which require the child's body to conform to the rigid expectations of the technique, we strive to allow the developing dancer to find out how her or his body can approach the technique; and, as the body matures, to grow technically in a safe, progressive way — to feel the dancing from within. Our children's classes go slowly and allow plenty of time for imagination and exploration, even as the children are mastering the basic concepts. For the older student, we continue to emphasize the importance of understanding the hows and whys of technique, so that safe work habits, personal responsibility and concentration become second nature. Our goal is to give the student dancers the tools of mind and body that they need to become a professional or to become a lifelong friend of the arts, while providing a supportive atmosphere for their endeavors.

CLASS MAKE-UP POLICY

If you wish to make up classes you have missed between June 24 and July 25, these make-ups must occur by July 25, 2019. Make-ups cannot carry over into another session.

WHAT SHOULD YOUR YOUNG DANCER WEAR TO CLASS?

- For Hand-in-Hand, parents should wear comfortable clothing (sweatpants or exercise wear) that will allow them to move with their child; young dancers may wear comfortable clothing like their parents, or may wish to wear dancewear. If so, girls should wear white leotards with pink tights. Boys can wear close fitting with teeshirts with bike shorts or sweatpants.
- If your dancer will be 4 or older by October 1, 2019, her uniform will be Style A in white.
- If you're new to the school, and your dancer will be 6 or older by October 1, 2019, and your dancer does not already own a leotard, purchase whatever color you wish for the summer. If your dancer wants to continue dancing with us in the fall, we will place her/him in a level and that level will indicate which leotard color to buy.
- Boys: should wear a clean, short-sleeved teeshirt (not too big) and bike shorts.
- Girls: do not need to wear tights in the summer. If they wish to do so, they should wear pink ones.
- Boys and Girls: should wear ballet shoes, with socks or tights. Girls wear pink ballet shoes, boys wear black.
